

Online Workshop Finding your visual language (in Spanish and English)

Finding your visual language is the online version of the regular workshops that I teach about Color and Dynamics of Visual Language in my studio.

This online course proposes the awakening of your inner creativity through exciting activities based on the language of modern and contemporary artists.

The workshop, aimed at the general public (over 18 years old), will expand its sensitivity to visual culture, attaining greater confidence in their appreciation and expression practices.

Through drawing, collage, painting, and other practical exercises, aided by the use of various materials generally found at home, we will explore visual discourses that manifest in the finished works at the end of each class.
